

INDIA'S
Vanishing Girls

ADF INDIA

In India, over 2,000 girls are killed in the womb every day. ADF India launched the Vanishing Girls Campaign to counter the practice of sex selective abortions and show that all girls across India need love, care, and an equal opportunity to experience all that life has to offer.

The Problem

Every year in India, girls are killed in the womb simply for being girls. 12 million girls have gone missing in the last three decades.

Most females in India are considered a burden on families and have little or no value. The practice of killing girls in the womb is now routine. For every 1,000 male births there are only 918 female births.

Existing laws were enacted to stop sex selective abortions, but enforcement of these laws has been feeble. Even with the Pre Conception Pre Natal Diagnostics Techniques (PCPNDT) (Prohibition of Sex Selection) Act, 1994, through 2017, there had been only 449 convictions in a nation of 1.2 billion people.

The Solution

The Act provides for the prevention of the use of pre-natal diagnostic techniques for the purpose of pre-natal sex determination leading to sex selective abortions.

We are calling on Indian states to effectively implement this law in three ways:

1. Constitute State Inspection and Monitoring Committees for checking the activities of ultrasound facilities indulging in advertisement of services and/or determination/revealing of the sex of the foetus.
2. Appoint special public prosecutors to ensure that perpetrators are effectively prosecuted under the PCPNDT Act.
3. Increase the frequency of inspections of all diagnostic laboratories by State Inspection and Monitoring Committees.

Other Ways We Respond

Training Allies, Raising Awareness

ADF India is also building a broad coalition of allies to eliminate the practice of sex selective abortions, and discrimination and violence against women.

So far, we have:

- Mobilized over 200 allied lawyers and law students to respond to issues of life and family.
- Conducted over 20 trainings on the equal dignity of men and women since 2016 with partner organisations.
- Organized outreach programmes for National Girl Child Day and International Day of the Girl Child which call for an end to sex selective abortions.
- Coordinated the Won by Two Conference focusing on the equal dignity of the sexes and addressing the practice of sex selective abortions in the Christian community.
- Gathered Inter-Faith Leaders who released a joint statement against the practice of sex selective abortions.

Pledging to End Sex Selective Abortions

The Vanishing Girls campaign asks individuals to sign a pledge committing to do their part to end the practice of sex selective abortion.

The signer commits to:

1. Honour and respect girls and women and strive to ensure that sex-selective abortions are not conducted in their families and among their friends.
2. Stand up for the women in their families so they can have an equal share in the resources of the family, including their legal inheritance.
3. Stand with women and girls as they exercise their fundamental freedoms and rights guaranteed under the Constitution of India.
4. Recognise that men and women are equally deserving of respect and opportunities in families, places of work and society.
